

Hitech: One season in...

How Eventr transformed travel logistics

About Hitech

HiTech Grand Prix has been at the forefront of single-seater competition, on both the national and world stage. They have a proven track record in FIA Formula 2, FIA Formula 3, GB3, Formula 4 (British and UAE). They are a winning team, with a reputation for race victories in every championship they compete in.

Complex Itinerary Management

Hitech team consists of dozens of individuals, each with unique travel needs. Coordinating flights, accommodation, transportation, and schedules for various locations, time zones, and venues is certainly complex.

Last-minute changes

Motorsports is a dynamic environment. Last-minute changes in race schedules, team personnel, or logistics posed a significant challenge. Hitech needed a system that could adapt quickly to real-time changes.

Cost Management

Managing travel expenses for a large team across multiple international locations can easily get out of hand without strict oversight. Tracking costs across different currencies, vendors, and timeframes was a cumbersome task.

Communicating

Communing complex itineraries before and during race weekends can be complicated, often done using PDFs and WhatsApp. This requires multiple iterations of a PDF and printed copies. The teams are often in areas with inconsistent signals, making it difficult to see what they are doing. WhatsApp groups often include everybody travelling, not just the people that require the information.

Challenges faced by Hitech

The EventR Solution

After considering several alternatives, Hitech chose EventR to streamline their travel logistics. The impact was immediate and measurable:

Centralised Logistics Platform

Centralised Logistics Platform
EventR provided Hitech with a single, centralised platform (the EventR Coordinator Hub) that handled all travel logistics from start to finish. By controlling the flights, hotels, and local transport through one intuitive dashboard, the team's logistics manager can oversee every aspect of travel planning without needing multiple tools or services.

Flexible Itinerary Updates

One of EventR's standout features is its ability to handle last-minute changes seamlessly. In the fast-paced world of motorsports, race schedules and team requirements are subject to frequent changes. With EventR, Hitech can quickly adjust travel plans without disrupting the entire schedule. With the press of a button the app is updated for the entire team and this update can be easily communicated using EventR inbuilt chat.

Cost Optimization/ Budgeting Tools

EventR's built-in cost tracking allows Hitech to manage their travel budget effectively. Easily duplicating itineraries enables a comparison between multiple costed plans before deciding on the best one. EventR can export the costs as a spreadsheet for easy integration with accounting systems.

Improved Data Entry

EventR has reduced the time required for inputting and updating the information for each race. Copying previous itineraries allows for quickly updating the data. The EventR flight system allows you to quickly update the flight information.

User Responsibility

By having all the information in one place with automatic updates, the team takes responsibility for the information. This allows for fewer mistakes, ensuring team members don't miss flights or their onward transport.

Data-driven Insights

Having used EventR for a full season, Hitech can review past trips and gather insights while planning for the next season.

In-built Chat

The inbuilt chat system allows the team to quickly communicate relevant information to the right people with groups being made for every activity.

“

EventR has been a game-changer for our team. Managing the travel needs of an entire racing crew used to be a logistical nightmare. Data entry for a race weekend used to take me half a day, now it takes half an hour! With EventR, we now have a streamlined process that saves us time, money, and stress. The EventR app is easy to use for the whole team and its offline features means they can get the information they need anywhere, this means no more Sunday phone calls asking what flight they are on! The platform's ability to adapt to last-minute changes is incredible, and the cost management tools have helped us stay on budget without sacrificing quality. EventR is now an essential part of our race operations.
